

UNIFICATION WITH TIME

Developed by Zivorad M. Slavinski

This process is completed in the same way as UCP. The only difference is you begin with a snapshot of the earliest memory (left side) and the moment of imagined death (right side).

After neutralization, ask test questions:

- a. Take a good look at whole your past. Be careful not to create anything. Just take a look as an objective observer and tell me: Is there anything in your past, or it is empty?

It should be empty. If it is not, ask them to make a snapshot of the moment left early in their timeline and the most recent. Complete with DP4

- b. Now take a good look at whole your future. Be careful not to create anything. Just take a look as an objective observer and tell me: Is there anything in your future or it is empty?

It should be empty.

Stabilization

- Are past and future real or they are just illusions?
- Who creates these illusions of past and future?
- Are you still under influence of these illusions of past and future or you are free of them?
- Imagine brilliant light flowing into you and through the timeline of your personal history, a brilliant river of light where the past used to be. Imagine this brilliant river of light flowing into and through where the future used to be.
